ABOUT LYN ASSELTA

Lyn Asselta admits that the landscape has been her muse since childhood when the rocky coast of Maine mesmerized her daily with its weather changes by the minute. Her memories are rich in detail of terrains that exuded strength and serenity. Her deep reverence for the earth brings those qualities into her paintings through the medium of pastel. Lyn has exhibited her landscape paintings throughout the United States and has been included in invitational exhibitions in France and China. She has taught internationally and across the USA. Lyn is an IAPS (International Association of Pastel Societies) Eminent Pastelist, a Signature member of the Pastel Society of America, a member of the Salmagundi Club, and is a Member of Excellence in the Southeastern Pastel Society. She is founder and past president of the First Coast Pastel Society based in northeast Florida. In 2009, Lyn was selected as Artist in Residence at Acadia National Park in Maine. Her work has been featured in magazines including Pastel Journal, Pratique des Arts, and Plein Air Magazine. She recently self-published her first book, Seeing the Landscape, a compilation of her prose and paintings. Lyn Asselta's work is represented by Gleason Fine Art in Boothbay Harbor, Maine, and at Cutter & Cutter Fine Art Galleries, Saint Augustine, Florida and The Lucy Clark Gallery, Brevard, North Carolina.

The coastal landscape is unique in that rhythms and movement and mood are so closely tied to its personality. Spending time in this environment and experiencing it firsthand is the key to successfully working from sketches or photos of it when you're back in the studio. We'll work both en plein air and in the studio, with an emphasis on finding ways to bring the vitality of the on-site experience into the studio and to your paintings.
